

FINEST

Since 1997, Ernest Ng founded RedDot BrewHouse out of pure passion and fondness for homebrewed beer. What used to be just humble curiosity 14 years ago is now the pioneer of the craft beer scene in Singapore.

CRAFTSMANSHIP

RedDot prides herself with producing unfiltered, crystal clear beers. Each beer is a delicate composition of ingredients and the pride of Brewmaster, Crystalla's decade long home-brewing experience.

STATE-OF-THE-ART BREWING

By blending traditional brewing craftsmanship with modern technological advancements, we push push boundaries, ensuring each glass delivers a perfect, crystal-clear experience that beer enthusiasts can savor and enjoy.

> "So being mansplained was common until I gained enough experience and knowledge to talk sense. Over time, people learnt to respect me. But I think it is like that in any workplace. Nothing unusual."

RedDot BrewHouse's Crystalla Huang is Singapore's first and only certified female brewmaster

Huang believes that in the end, it is "knowledge" that will be best used to overcome gender bias. ▶ READ: Creative Tings: How 3 Singaporean sisters found success supporting each

"I do admit, women have it slightly harder, especially in very technical-dominated and maledominated fields. We just have to try harder to prove ourselves," she said.

Like debunking the misconceptions of being a female brewmaster.

"Or that I am just lucky or I am a lazy second-generation brewer from a brewing family," she revealed. "Some even think I do not know how to brew. They think that I have hired a score of professional male brewers working behind me to ensure quality RedDot beer."

But this hasn't stopped Huang - and it shouldn't either if other women are looking to join the industry

Her words of advice? For women to see the job and profession for what it is.

"Do not put your gender bias on it or give excuses like women should not carry heavy things or that the job is too dirty for me or the guys can do it." she said.

"Do what your male counterparts do, put your head down, roll up your sleeves and just work. Have an
